change their last names to Hendel.
Judge Reed heard the petitions at the short calendar session of the superior court last week and took the cases under consideration. Those who petitioned for the change of name were petitioned for the change of name were Episcopal Bishops of Connecticut.

In connection with this week's state episcopal convention it is recalled that Sunday, June 11, St. Barnabas' day, was the 60th anniversary of the election of Rev. John Williams, D. D., LL.
D., to be the fourth bishop of the diocese of Connecticut, then an assistant to the third bishop, Rt. Rev. Thomas Church Brownell, D. D., LL. D. The convention at St. John's church, Waterbury, as was also the convention in June, 1857, when Rt. Rev. Chauncey Burr Brainerd, D. D., was elected bishop coadjutor to Bishop Williams.
At the death of Bishop Brownell Jan.
13, 1881, Bishop Williams became the head of the diocese, holding that office until his death Feb. 7, 1899. Bishop Everett then succeeded him, and until the consecration of Rev. Edward Campion Acheson in 1915 as bishop suffragan was sole administrator of the affairs of the diocese.

NORWICH ELKS OBSERVE FLAG DAY
Patriotic Address Delivered by J. F. Hennon of Jewett City—Past Exalted Ruler Lawrence Milles Reads History of the Flag—Members of Sedgwick Post, No. 1, G. A. R., Numbered in the Attendance.

The devotion to ideals and intensified conceptions of what is great and desirable, thereby producing the true love of liberty which animates and controls the true patriot.

The True Patriot.
A true patriot is first of all a good man, true to himself and true in his relations to his fellow man. If he loves not himself, he cannot love his wife and child, the neighbor and the world beside him. How shall he rightly love his country? If he respect not the dignity of human nature in himself, how can he respect it in others? If he is not honest, how can he be a patriot? If he is not a man of honor, how can he be a patriot?
The true American patriot is an important factor in the great government which has its mantle of protection over him and his country.
Inspired by the wisdom of Washington, interpreted by the genius of Hamilton, and bathed in the blood of his ancestors, the true patriot is of his liberties, whose wise and beneficial laws administer equal justice to his fellow man, whose strong right arm stands between him and every foe.

The government he owes many duties. For every civic right there is a corresponding duty. In return for the blessings bestowed upon him by his country, he owes to it the duty of a citizen. He should be a man part in her affairs. He should take an earnest, intelligent interest in politics, that he may support the men and measures, and resist with all his might the selection of corrupt and unsuitable candidates for office.

The loyal citizen must be ready and willing at all times to support and defend his country, to stand her to suffer and if need be to die for her.
Scan the pages of history and where can you find a nation, past, present, or future, that has not been a patriot? The patriot is the man of the Republic means to us. Think of it, thousands of lives to give it birth, a million dead on battlefields, millions of bleeding hearts at home, and billions of treasure to maintain it.
It is the duty of every citizen to maintain it, to preserve it, to must respect, love, and preserve it.
Our day needs men of principle and conviction, directed by conscience. We must have sound principles and must stand for them. We must have sound convictions and must voice them, and let our country know our country, first and last and all the time, before parties, before men, before ourselves, before everybody, before everything, before anything.
Lang's orchestra played at intervals during the evening. The officers of the lodge for the year were

The committee in charge compiled the following: Mr. Murphy, chairman, Stephen J. Kehoe, James Casey, Thomas F. Crawford and James Moran.

JOHN F. HENNON
For the first time the Elks held public flag day exercises in their home on Main street, Wednesday evening. The exercises were impressively carried out before a good sized audience, including lodge members, and members of Sedgwick Post, No. 1, G. A. R., and other guests.
John F. Hennon of Jewett City, graduate of Georgetown university, gave the patriotic address of the evening in a very eloquent manner.

The Elks Flag Day.
The address delivered by Mr. Hen-non follows:
On such an occasion as this, the thought, why are we here? naturally present itself, and in answer thereto we realize that we, in these exercises are paying our tribute to the flag of our country, giving testimony of our love for and loyalty to the ideals, principles and aspirations of a people as shown forth by that glorious banner of stars and stripes.

Our country has set apart certain days to perpetuate the memory of the illustrious men and events interwoven with its history; our July 4th; the birthdays of Washington and Lincoln; our Memorial Day, Thanksgiving Day, Flag Day, each and all for a definite purpose, viz: to remind us of the motives, ideals and convictions animating and guiding people, and represented by the illustrious men and deeds to whose memory such days have been solemnly dedicated.
Today, Flag Day one of the latest, but by no means the least, we are gathered here under the auspices of an organization whose cardinal principle is fidelity, justice, charity and brotherly love, in the home, in the city, in the world, to the principles, to pay our reverence, attest our loyalty and renew our allegiance, not to material things, but to the ideals taught by the practice of those principles, to the ideals taught by its details of hue and form, mutually inspiring.
